When Mr. Knight arrived in Salt Lake Monday night it was understood that he had de-cided to accept the nomination, and Mr. Evans was so confident of his election in the event of his accepting the nomination that he offered to wager a large sum that Mr. Knight would be elected. Yesterday morning when Mr. Evans met Mr. Knight on the special train to Logan he was surprised to learn from him that he had decided to decline the nomination.

After using every argument possible to induce Uncle Jesse to change his decision, Mr. Evans left the train at Brigham City in disgust, tore off his Knight badge and

The Republican Party.

"We need not go back so very many years before we find groundwork for the indictment of the Republican party for high crimes and misdemeaners against the republic. In 1876 Samuel J. Tilden was the republic. In 1876 Samuel J. Tilden was been of persons who had fallen unconscious from inhaling smoke.

And so in 1900 and in 1904, the great corruption funds, so vast that we cannot appreciate the amounts which were under the control of the Republican leaders, were used to debauch the nation. He who stifles the free voice of the nation by power or by threats, for who persuades the voter from his honest choice by ulterior means, or who corrupts the source of liberty by the purchase of the solution, is a traitor to the state and an enemy of the people, and this is charge upon the Republican party.

"For long years the tariff laws of the Republican party have been the bulwark that has protected predatory wealth and enabled it to secure unrighteous gains. And now we find the Republican candidate for president admits that these laws must be revised, the cry goes up that, they must be revised by their friends. To they must be revised by their friends. To allow our tariff laws to be revised by the Republican party is to say that the paid attorneys and the paid lobbyists of special interests and all unlawful trusts shall gather once more and manipulate legislation so that the unjust gains of favored interests may be increased. If the tariff laws are revised by the Republican party, do you suppose that they would be revised in the interest of the sheep herder upon the plains of Wyoming or in the valleys of Utah? Do you think they will be revised in the interest of the lead miners in our hills or of the laborers in our smelters and mines? If you do, your innocence is so great that "There was one thing that was not charged against the Democratic party in the long list that was catalogued at the Republican state convention, and that was that the success of the Democratic party nationally would result in a panic. It was so unusual not to hear that charge made that it caused one to wonder whether, after all, any Republican convention had actually been in session, but the reason is that the Republicans have too recently had a panic of their own upon their hands, to charge that such things are the result of a victory by the Democrats. Even under a Republican administration we have had bonds issued in time of peace; under a Republican administration the notes of the government were illegally issued in time of peace, and right in Salt Lake City a soup house was opened to feed the hungry who could not obtain employment under a Republican administration, and the effects of the Republican panic have not yet passed. Here in Utah, because of our mines and our extraordinarilyy fertile soil, we have weathered the storm with but little to complain of, but in the nation at large millions of men are still out of employment and real distress still exists.

What Happened to the Organ.

Not only that. For weeks the newspaper that boasts that it is the official organ of the Republican party of Utah had advocated local option, the prohibition of the liquor traffic in Utah. It had created a sentiment in favor of a declaration to that effect by the Republican state convention. In the meantime a powerful organization of brewers of this state and of the nation took the matter up and made a deal with the Republican organization, and the voice of the Republican voters of this state upon that subject was stifled and the declaration upon that question was throttled.

Democratic Party Absolved.

"Senator Smoot has stated that the panic came about because the people were too prosperous, and that they speculated too largely. Whatever caused the panic, proof beyond question has been furnished that the Democratic party has not a monopoly upon the panic business, but that great distress financially can be produced even while we are reveiling in the benign rays of a strenuous Republican administration. The fact is that the speculation complained of by Senator Smoot was not speculation of the common people; there was a great laxity in the management of banks, and there was much speculation upon the part of many bank officials, and when people asked for their money at the banks their money was not there, and then there was well-founded lack of confidence, and everyone wanted to draw out his money at the same time, and as a result many bank doors closed and great distress followed.
